WEEKLY VANTAGE POINT

August 5-9, 2019

Stocks Weaken a Second Week

Volatility Returns

U.S. stocks ended a turbulent week with another decline on concerns the trade dispute with China may not end anytime soon. Equity markets were whipsawed on Monday after China retaliated against new tariff threats by devaluing its currency, sending stocks to their biggest one-day decline of the year. The week ended with President Trump saying trade talks planned for early September could be cancelled. Despite several big swings during the week, all three major U.S. equity indices recorded modest declines.

Weekly Performance

For the week, the Dow Industrials fell 0.75%, the S&P 500 slipped 0.40%, and the tech-heavy Nasdaq Composite declined 0.51%. All three indices had their first back-to-back weekly declines since May 31. Through Friday, the S&P 500 is down 4.08% from its most recent record-high set on July 26.

Mixed Views on Services Activity

The Institute for Supply Management (ISM) said its non-manufacturing activity index fell to its weakest level since August 2016, slowing to 53.7 in July from 55.1. Separately, a related measure from IHS Markit, its U.S. services activity index rose to 53 in July, the fastest pace in three months.

Real Estate Performed Best

Six of the 11 major sectors posted gains last week, led by Real Estate (+1.78%), Utilities (+1.14%), and Materials (+0.75%). Energy (-2.14%), Financials (-1.58%), and Technology (-0.69%) declined the most.

Treasuries Rally

Treasury prices eased on Friday, sending the yields on two- and 10-year Treasury notes up less than three basis points each to 1.65% and 1.75%, respectively. The U.S. Dollar Index fell 0.59% last week, alternating between daily strength and weakness. U.S. crude oil gained the most in nearly a month on Friday, rising 3.73% to $54.50/barrel and paring a weekly loss to 2.08%.

Chart of the Week: Treasury Yields Weaken

Source: YCharts, U.S. Department of the Treasury.

The 10-Year Treasury yield dropped below 1.60% last week for the first time since September 2016. The decline in bond yields intensified over the last week because the trade war with China has heated up, market volatility increased, and the outlook for economic growth continues to weaken. The path of bond yields this year points to a weaker outlook for inflation and economic growth. Positively, falling bond yields and a lower Federal Funds rate provides lower borrowing costs for consumers.

The Bloomberg Barclays US Aggregate Bond Index, which was originally called the Lehman Aggregate Bond Index, is a broad based flagship benchmark that measures the investment grade, US dollar-denominated, fixed-rate taxable bond market. The index includes Treasuries, government-related and corporate debt securities, MBS (agency fixed-rate and hybrid ARM pass-throughs), ABS and CMBS (agency and non-agency) debt securities that are rated at least Baa3 by Moody's and BBB- by S&P. Taxable municipals, including Build America bonds and a small amount of foreign bonds traded in U.S. markets are also included. Eligible bonds must have at least one year until final maturity, but in practice the index holdings have a fluctuating average life of around 8.25 years. This total return index, created in 1986 with history backfilled to January 1, 1976, is unhedged and rebalances monthly.

The Bloomberg Barclays US Corporate High Yield Index measures the USD-denominated, non-investment grade, fixed-rate, taxable corporate bond market. Securities are classified as high yield if the middle rating of Moody's, Fitch, and S&P is Ba1/BB+/BB+ or below, excluding emerging market debt. Payment-in-kind and bonds with predetermined step-up coupon provisions are also included. Eligible securities must have at least one year until final maturity, but in practice the index holdings have a fluctuating average life of around 6.3 years. This total return unhedged index was created in 1986, with history backfilled to July 1, 1983 and rebalances monthly.

The Bloomberg Barclays US Municipal Bond Index covers the USD-denominated long-term tax exempt bond market. The index has four main sectors: state and local general obligation bonds, revenue bonds, insured bonds, and prerefunded bonds. Many of the subindices of the Municipal Index have historical data to January 1980. In addition, several subindices based on maturity and revenue source have been created, some with inception dates after January 1980, but no later than July 1, 1993. Eligible securities must be rated investment grade (Baa3/BBB- or higher) by Moody's and S&P and have at least one year until final maturity, but in practice has a fluctuating average life of around 12.8 years. This total return index is unhedged and rebalances monthly.
