WEEKLY VANTAGE POINT

December 9-13, 2019

Trade Deal Reached

Equity Momentum Builds

U.S. stocks ended the week with back-to-back record highs amid investor relief about reaching a phase one trade deal with China. Investor sentiment was also bolstered as other uncertainties eased, including progress toward House passage of the U.S.-Mexico-Canada free trade agreement and British election results that should usher in Brexit approval.

Weekly Performance

For the week, the Dow Industrials rose 0.43%, S&P 500 gained 0.77%, and the tech-heavy Nasdaq Composite advanced 0.93%. Including dividends, the S&P 500 is up 28.88% year-to-date and the Dow Industrials has gained 10,000 points since the 2016 elections.

Small Business Optimism Improves

The National Federation of Independent Business said its small business optimism Index jumped to 104.7 in November, with seven of the 10 components moving higher. The Index climbed 2.3 points versus October, which was the largest one-month increase since May 2018.

Technology Performs Best

Nine (9) of the 11 major sectors posted gains last week, led by Technology (+1.98%), Consumer Discretionary (+1.10%), and Financials (+1.05%). Consumer Staples (+0.02%) posted the smallest gain, while Real Estate (-2.38%) and Communication Services (-0.61%) lagged.

Treasury Yields Dip

U.S. Treasury prices crept higher last week even as equity momentum returned, sending yields slightly lower. The yield on two-year Treasury notes slipped one basis point to finish the week at 1.61%, while benchmark 10-year notes ended at 1.82%. For the week, the U.S. Dollar Index declined 0.54%, while WTI crude oil gained nearly 1.5% to reach a three-month high at $60.07/barrel.

Chart of the Week: Stocks Rip Higher This Year

Source: Cetera Investment Management, YCharts, Standard & Poor's. Data as of 12/13/2019.

The S&P 500 finished the week at an all-time high of 3,168, aided by the phase one trade deal between the U.S. and China. Large cap stocks have rallied strongly in the fourth quarter and are now up 28.89% YTD, on track for the second highest level of calendar-year returns this expansion. It has been a turnaround year for stocks after the S&P 500 had its lone negative total return of the expansion last year.
